

Agnes Kane, MD, PhD

APC Senior Fellow Since: 2021

Email: Agnes_Kane@brown.edu

EDUCATION

Undergraduate Degree: Swarthmore College, Zoology, BA (1964-1968). Graduate/Professional Degree: Temple University School of Medicine, MD (1968-1974); Temple University School of Medicine, PhD (1976). Postgraduate Education: Resident in Anatomic Pathology, Temple University School of Medicine (1975-1976 and 1977-1978); Postdoctoral Fellowship, Karolinska Institute (1976-1977). Board Certification: Anatomic Pathology (1979).

SERVICE

Service as Pathology Chair: Brown University School of Medicine (1995-2021). Leadership Roles Before, During, and After Service as Chair: Director, Training Program in Environmental Pathology, Brown University (1992-2020). Other Academic Positions After Service as Chair: Professor Emerita, Brown University (2021-Present).

AREAS OF PROFESSIONAL INTEREST

Research: Environmental pathology. Clinical: Anatomic pathology. Educational: Course Director, General Pathology. Mentoring: Graduate students and faculty. Current Interests: Research and advocacy in environmental health.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Honors and Awards: Fellow, American Association for the Advancement of Science (2011); Temple University School of Medicine Alumni Achievement Award (1999); Research Career Development Award, National Institutes of Health (1981-1986). Professional Achievements of Which You are Most Proud: Advancing careers of women in medicine and science; Interdisciplinary research in nanotechnology; Research and advocacy in environmental health.

OUTSIDE INTERESTS

Hobbies: Reading; Gardening. Volunteer Activities: Board of Directors, Silent Spring Institute. Other: Scientific advisor, International Agency for Research on Cancer, World Health Organization.