

George Michalopoulos, MD, PhD

APC Senior Fellow Since: 2023

Email: michalopoulosgk@upmc.edu

EDUCATION

Undergraduate Degree: Athens, Greece, 5th High School (1963). Graduate/Professional Degree: Medical Doctor (MD), University of Athens, Greece (1970); PhD, Oncology, University of Wisconsin (1977). Board Certification: Board Certification, Anatomic Pathology (1977).

SERVICE

Service as Pathology Chair: University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine (1991-2023). Leadership Roles

Before, During, and After Service as Chair: President of ASIP (2016-2017); Elected as member of the Greek National Academy (November 2019) and Inducted (2021); Elected as member of the American Association of Physicians (AAP) (2018); Distinguished Scientist Award, American Liver Foundation (2010); National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, NIH, Chair, Board of Scientific Counselors (2008-2010).

AREAS OF PROFESSIONAL INTEREST

Research: Liver regeneration and carcinogenesis; Receptor Tyrosine Kinases and non-alcoholic fatty liver disease. Clinical: Liver biopsies; surgical pathology. Educational: Pathology graduate program, Oncology Course, Duke University (1980-1990). Mentoring: Mentoring as senior thesis advisor for 15 graduates (Duke University and University of Pittsburgh). Current Interests: Liver biology, growth and metabolism.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Honors and Awards: Elected as member of the Greek National Academy (November 2019) and Inducted (2021); Elected as member of the American Association of Physicians (AAP) (2018); President, American Association for Investigative Pathology (2016-2017); Elected as Fellow of the American Association for the Study of Liver Disease (AASLD) (Nov. 2014); Honorary Doctorate Degree, University of Athens, Athens, Greece (2013); Distinguished Science Professor, University of Pittsburgh (2012); Medical Alumni Resident Citation Award, Wisconsin Medical Alumni Association, Madison, WI (2011); Distinguished Scientist Award, American Liver Foundation (2010); Member of the NIH College of Senior CSR Reviewers (2010); Fellow, American Association for the Advancement of Science (2009); Recipient of the American Society of Investigative Pathology Rous Whipple Award (2009). Professional Achievements of Which You are Most Proud: Elected as member of the Greek National Academy (November 2019) and Inducted (2021); President, American Association for Investigative Pathology (2016-2017); Distinguished Science Professor, University of Pittsburgh (2012); Distinguished Scientist Award, American Liver Foundation (2010); Medical Alumni Resident Citation Award, Wisconsin Medical Alumni Association, Madison, WI (2011).